

The Lost Watch.

One sunny afternoon at a church there was a little girl named Haley she had light blue eyes and she is nice and she has a blue shirt. One day she was making a sand castle when she grabbed dirt she looked behind her she saw a watch.

She took the watch and found an old lady. Haley asked the old lady if this was hers but she said, no. Then she found a man so she went to ask him if it was his but he said, no to. Then she found a Park Ranger and asked her if she's found someone with this watch yes. I'll put it in the lost and found box.

A little girl asks has anyone seen my watch and Haley said yes. And the owner was Haley's friend. And the owner was happy.

One summer night after some scary movies, there is howling wind as loud as a wolf. I get ready to go to bed and I hear extra footsteps "break creek".

As I try to sleep I hear whispering. I open my eyes to see something that looks like a floating head, and a reflection of a hooded man. I hear something move it's not my hamster "shhshh." For a strange reason, a thriller is playing somewhere in the distance. there is a growing shadow under my door ~~then~~ <sup>as</sup> it creaks open <sup>I curl up in my cozy</sup> "few" it's my brother. "And I was scared," I say in my head. I ~~learned~~ learned you can't believe everything.
